

WHO AM I

Introduction

Who am I? I am a girl who has just entered her teenage. I am full of life and love surrounding myself with like-minded people. I have high ambitions in life and most of all I want to make my family proud.

I live in a joint family. We are six people in total – my grandfather, grandmother, father, mother and my younger brother. We are a close-knit family and love celebrating every festival and occasion with great zeal. Our house is often seen filled with guests especially on the weekends and holidays. My family defines me. I am who I am because of them. Each of my family members inspires me and adds value to my life. I want to introduce you to every member of my family in brief as it will help you understand as to who I am and why I am this way.

My Loving Family

My Grandfather: My grandfather is extremely loving and supportive. He supports me and my brother in everything we do. During his childhood and early adulthood, he lived in that part of India that now forms a part of Pakistan. Like most other Hindus, he came here during the partition. His story of struggle during those hard times is an inspiration for us.

My Grandmother: My grandmother is a very religious person. She is strict yet sweet. She has several fond memories of her childhood days and the times when her children were growing up and often narrates them to us. We love sitting by her side and listening to her stories.

My Mother: My mother is a working woman. She takes care of her office as well as household work gracefully. She wakes up much before all of us and starts with the household chores. She cooks, gets us ready, drops us to school and then heads to her office. In the evening, she supervises our studies, cooks and spends quality time with us. She binds the family together with her love and warmth.

My Father: My father is quite strict with everything. He likes things to be in order. As per him, everyone should lead a disciplined life. He is very particular about the timings and wants us to respect the same. He is the pillar of strength for our family.

My Brother: Being the youngest in the family, my brother is quite pampered. He is the source of joy for all of us. He loves playing and keeps everyone engaged with his interesting games. I share a very special bond with him. We study, play, eat, laugh and cry together. We also fight a lot but make up within no time.

My Family Defines Me

It is rightly said that our company and environment have a great impact on our personality. When I look at myself today, I see how I have inculcated various habits of my family members. I have the strength and courage of my grandfather. People find me warm and friendly and I believe I have got these traits from my grandmother. I am love spreading smiles around and do all the tasks sincerely and this quality I have taken after my mother. I am hard working and determined just like my father. And who says you can only learn from your elders? You can also learn from those who are younger to you. I am a bit naughty too and this I think is a result of me spending a good part of my day with my naughty little brother.

Conclusion

Our family plays a vital role in shaping our personality. They teach us something of value every day. I am glad I have an amazing family. I am happy and proud of who I am.
